The Northern HSC Trust delivers health services in the northern regions of the country including Northern Ireland's only inhabited island, Rathlin. Care is delivered through the following hospitals:

Antrim Area Hospital - the largest hospital in the Trust including a newly renovated 24 hour Emergency department which opened in 2013 as well as an Acute Assessment Unit which can offer services in cardiology, nephrology and diabetes

Braid Valley Care Complex - offering services including x-ray, physiotherapy and a wide range of outpatient services

Causeway Hospital - located in Coleraine this hospital offers a range of acute services as well as having a 24 hour emergency department

Dalriada Hospital - this hospital provides a range of non acute, community hospital services with 32 inpatient beds for patients requiring rehabilitation

Holywell Hospital - on a site of 140 acres this hospital provides acute and in-patient mental health services including an addiction unit, dementia assessment and rehabilitation

Mid Ulster Hospital - providing a range of services including a minor injuries unit, a childrens unit and radiology services

Moyle Hospital - offering both community hospital and outpatient services providing rehabilitation services, while patients needs are managed by a group of local GP's

Robinson Hospital - offering a number of rehabilitation processes as well as a child development centre and a Community Physiotherapy Department

Whiteabbey Hospital - providing sub-acute hospital services to the population in Newtownabbey and the surrounding areas

Portbradden in County Antrim

Development at the Trust:

With a commitment to continual learning and development among its staff there are many opportunities for progression while working at the Trust. Alongside this the Trust takes pride in ensuring the health and wellbeing of their staff. The Trust is a medically led-organisation with a strong presence on the senior management team ensuring they are leading the way in delivering the highest level of service.

Living in the area:

Offering sweeping coastlines and green landscapes living in the Trust area offers some of the most beautiful scenery in the UK. This includes the UNESCO World Heritage Site the Giant's Causeway and the epic landscapes that Game of Thrones was filmed at. There are great opportunities for surfing of the Antrim coast, scuba diving from Rathlin Island or teeing off at the Royal Portrush Golf Club, host to the Irish Open in 2012. The area is also very affordable with a 3 bedroom detached house costing between £125,000 - £150,000, while renting a 3 bedroom property will cost between £500 - £600 a month.
